London, June 26.

Yesterday arrived the Mail from Flanders.

Genoa, June 4.

BY a Felucca, which arrived here in six Days from Marseilles, we are informed, that the Squadron of Gallies fitted out in that Port, was ready to come into our Seas; and that the Person who had snatched a Crucifix out of a blind Man's Hands, and stamped it under his Feet, has been burnt at Aix in Provence. Those Letters add, that the Intendant of Provence is indefatigable in rooting out the new Sect of Fanaticks that were discovered some Time ago at Montpellier: A Chain of 73 Men condemned to the Gallies having been brought hither, have been put on board the two Gallies of the Napolitan Squadron, which stays only for a fair Wind to return to Naples with the Barks which have taken in here Masts and other Materials for the new Gallies that are building in the Arsenal of Naples; from whence we hear, that the Cardinal Viceroy had ordered the Galley Capitana to put to Sea with a large armed Bark, and pursue the Barbary Corsairs who had taken upon the Coasts of Ischia and Nisita two Neapolitan Barks laden with Wine and Oyl, and another coming from Rome with Passengers, amongst which there were three Capuchins. The two Catalonian Pinks that went lately together for Barcelona, met in their Way and took a large Sloop with 18 Turks, amongst which there were two Renegadoes, who leaped over board and were drowned. The Master of a Bark arrived at Leghorn from Cagliari reports, that before his coming away there came into that Port three of the King of Sardinia's Gallies, with 11 other Vessels laden with 13 Pieces of great Ordnance, all Sorts of warlike Ammunition, and some Troops for relieving the Garrison of that Place.

Rome, June 10. Yesterday his Holiness examined the List of the Ecclesiasticks that are to be presented for Bishops in the next Consistory; and 'tis said that on the 26th Instant another Consistory will be held, when the vacant Cardinals Caps will be disposed of; M. Altieri, and M. Falconieri Governour of Rome, are very like to be of the Number. Cardinal Ottoboni has left off his Peruke, and obliged all the Musicians of the Pope's Chapel, of which he has the Direction, to do the same: 'Tis even said, that he will take the Orders of Priesthood, conform to the Advice his Holiness gave him in the Conclave.

Dantzick, June 15. Letters from Warsaw confirm, that the Circular Letters for convoking the Great Dyet have been issued and sent to the respective Palatinates of the Kingdom of Poland and the Great Duchy of Lithuania, containing in Substance, that the Representatives should turn all their Thoughts upon the common Welfare of their Country, and to reconcile the jarring Parties amongst them, to the End the Dyet may go on successfully, and new Troubles prevented, which cannot but prove highly prejudicial to the Crown and the Republick. The Protonotary of the Crown Potosky, who tarried in this City for some Time, set out last Week for Warsaw. Before he left this Place, he bought up a vast Quantity of Powder, and left Orders for casting several Pieces of Ordnance, which deserves the more Reflection, since this Grandee and his whole Family are not at all in the King's Interest. They wonder at Warsaw, that the Turkish Aga, who is sent by the Porte with Commissions to the King and the Republick, stays so long at Chocsim, without pursuing his Journey to Warsaw. Six Days ago an Express coming from Moscow, passed through this City, who, after having delivered some Letters to the Duke of Mecklembourg, proceeded on his Journey. This Express reports, that the Czar had been taken so ill on the 20th of April last, that he could not appear in publick for 10 Days together, and that it was for that Reason the Ceremonies of the Coronation had not been so pompous as was designed, only the chief Persons and Bojars of the Empire having assisted thereat cloathed in Scarlet, and the Prelates in their usual Habits: That in the Speech the Czar made to the Prelates and the Grandees in the Great Hall of Kremelin (his Palace) his Majesty expressed the great Satisfaction he had to see the Zeal they had constantly shewn for his Person and Government, and that he had Reason to flatter himself, that after his Decease, his faithful Subjects will exert their utmost Power to maintain the Czarish Family upon the Throne of Great Russia, and to extend its Boundaries.

Vienna, June 17. By an Express who arrived here the 14th Instant from Count Caunitz, our Ambassadour at Rome, we have received the Particulars of the new Pope's Coronation. The same Day, Sig. Grimaldo, Nuncio at this Court, ordered the Arms of the new Pope to be put over the great Gate of his Palace, in the Room of those of the late Pope Innocent XIII. Some Days ago, many Families from Suabia and Franconia arrived here upon the Danube, going down to settle likewise in the Territories of Temeswaer, and other conquer'd Places, where those Families that settled there before have so well grubbed up and manured the Lands assigned to them, that they look as if they had been always cultivated.

Paris, June 19.

Extract of a Letter from Rome, written by M Vivant, Cardinal de Rohan's Couclaviſt, to his Brother, Chancellour of the University of Paris.

'NOW, Sir, I hope you are pleased. We 'have got a Pope, we owe to God alone. 'Neither the joyned Interest of the Crowns, nor 'the Intrigues of private Persons, have had any 'Share in it. No body thought of the Dean of 'the Sacred College; and all, as it were by Inspi'ration, have concurred to raise him to the Papal 'Dignity. He is a Saint, nay a great Saint of the 'Order of St. Dominick, a Penitent, a great 'Faster, praying constantly, humble, popular, 'edifying both by his Example and Discourses, Ge'nerous, and a true Exemplar of Charity; and here 'you have, Sir, some Part of the new Pope's Cha'racter, &c.

Other Letters from Rome mention the following Particulars: That the present Pope, ever since he has been in Orders, has abstained from eating Meat and drinking Wine, though the Rules of the Dominican Order do not require it, that he absolutely contemns Wealth and Grandeur, and for that Reason would never espouse the Interest of any Prince. His Humility carries him even so far, that he will not make use of any Coach or Litter, much less of the usual rich Furniture in the Vatican: And as he has already begun a strict Reform in his Houshold; the Ecclesiasticks, as well Regular as Secular, apprehend the same amongst them. The Duke of Richelieu has dismissed his Musick, being now wholly intent upon his Embassy: As this Duke is a Man of extraordinary Wit and Parts, the Court would not have spared him, had it not been for Affairs of the highest Consequence, which he is to transact at the Emperour's Court. A Meeting will be to Day at the Attorney General's House, in order to take a final Resolution for putting in Execution the King's Declaration, which is to be published against Beggars. 'Tis said, another Ordinance will come out, in order to keep those that wear Liveries within their Bounds: It has been observed, that since the Ladies affect to have lusty and tall Footmen, these Gentlemen gives themselves Airs de Marquis, which they will be soon taught to leave off. Those that were lately taken up at the Gate of the Thuilleries for their Insolences, are to be tried next Week, and 'tis thought they will be put into the Pillory.

Hague, June 30. We have Advice from Aix la Chapelle, that the King and Queen of Denmark design to set out from thence To-morrow, to return to Copenhagen by the same Way they came, without making a Tour into Holland, as was expected. M. Buys is ordered by the States-General to prepare to set out within a Fortnight for Copenhagen. The States of the Province of Holland are to meet the 5th of next Month, at which time Deputies from the several Admiralties are ordered to attend: Those from Zealand are already arrived. The States General have determined, that their Squadron in the Mediterranean shall continue there till the 1st of December next; and this Resolution has been sent to Cadiz for Admiral Godin, and to their Minister M. Vander Meer at Madrid. The eldest Son of Major-General Wassenaer, Captain of a Troop of Dragoons, who was to have married the eldest Daughter of the late M. Duyvenvoorde, his Cousin, died the 22d Instant of the Small Pox at Breda.
